

Being married while attending YLS -- and having a daughter born just before final exams the last year — and going to see Prof Bork in order to get an extension for the antitrust final.

Switching after 15 years from private practice in securities and financial services to teaching, which I loved. Western New England School of Law. Served also as a Reporter for the State Commissioners on Uniform State laws, rewriting the Uniform Securities Act, and, on a two-year sabbatical, serving as Connecticut Deputy Banking Commissioner, completing a recodification of the state banking and related laws.

Running a B & B, wife Margo's longtime dream. We located a big old federal in Norwich, Vermont (just across the Connecticut River from Dartmouth College) which we reconfigured to become a B & B, and operated that for 9 years—great fun!
